CO-OPERATE AT WILLIAMSBURG

Those of us who have been to Williamsburg in recent months and seen the wonderful work of the historical association realize that the presence of the Eastern State Hospital in the city hasn't done it any harm, and may help it to some extent financially. Without having to resort to draining the state treasury. All in all, it is one of the finest developments in Virginia in our time and we are indebted to our benefactors and the far seeing committee, Dr. Goodwin.

Now, it appears that the site of the Eastern State Hospital is wanted in the restoration program. If a practical plan for moving it can be worked out, we believe that Virginia should cooperate, and leave the center of ancient Williamsburg free to historical restoration.

ROOSEVELT WILL WIN

In recent weeks there has been considerable discussion in the daily press in regards to the possibility of the Roosevelt administration meeting defeat at the polls in 1936. The case has been directed on the premise that a third candidate, probably Huey Long, would run and so polls ... that the Republican would win.

The Times-Virginian sees weaknesses in this line of forecast. We feel, that first of all, too much is ... on the third candidate. We recognize that if the "Kingfish" can ... himself with Father Coughlin and the old age pension bloc, that he may ... a very impressive number of popular votes. But, what has been neglected is that Long may get a total of five million votes in the ... and yet fail to carry a single state. Our presidents are elected by electoral, not popular votes. We would be inclined to concede to Huey ... the state of Louisiana and its ... electoral votes, but outside of that what else is there to concede him, except a flattering popular vote, and an outside chance to carry the neighboring state of Mississippi and maybe Arkansas. And all that is less than New York's big electoral vote by far.

Secondly, the case takes for granted that the Republicans will be able to unite on a candidate who can muster the maximum Republican vote on election day. Offhand, that is not ... Who would it be? Surely ... Borah or Ogden Mills. And it ... hardly probable that Charles E. ... Hughes, the strongest bet, ... would run. Knox and Glenn Frank are being named, but it must be recalled that Herbert Hoover is still the titular head of the party, and much can happen to tear the Grand Old Party apart over a candidate emerges.

Thirdly, the personality and drawing power of the present set has been ... would resign as chief justice in order to run. Knox and Glenn Frank are being named, but it must be recalled that Herbert Hoover is still the titular head of the party, and much can happen to tear the Grand Old Party apart over a candidate emerges.

Thirdly, the personality and drawing power of the present set has been ... for their homes in Portsmouth, Ohio.

How your MONEY WORKS FOR YOU IN A Checking Account

When you put your money in a savings account you get interest on it. In a checking account you get service for it—and let the bank draw the interest. In return for this interest the bank gives you privileges worth far more to you than the interest itself.

When you maintain a balance commensurate with your use of your checking account privileges, the bank will be reimbursed for the expense of serving you. Otherwise, the bank may properly look to you to meet this expense.

Money in a checking account is an investment that pays you real dividends.

Better Breakfasts

IS your breakfast a builder-upper? It should be. It should do for you what the bandleader who prances about between halves at the football game does for the spirit of the crowds. It should build you up to get the most zest out of the day.

Plan, first of all, variety in your breakfasts. Consider foods which are energy-giving and delicacies which are most awfully good. See that your coffee is not just something-in-a-cup but the best possible cup of coffee. If you it vacuum-packed so that it will be fresh and aromatic.

Then plan your breakfasts with exactness—and enthusiasm. Here is a build-up menu:

Apricot and Grapefruit Compote
Cereal with Cream
Eggs Poached in Milk on Wholewheat Toast
Honey in the Comb
Coffee

Apricot and Grapefruit Compote: Cut one cup of canned apricots in quarters and one cup of canned grapefruit in pieces suitable for serving. Add the apricot and grapefruit syrups and the juice from one orange. Chill overnight. This compote serves five persons.*

School Library Used

Movement and change are perhaps the most outstanding characteristics of this age. It is the conception and change of methods of teaching that has brought about the development of the libraries. To the library the course of study in its community has obviously been the guiding star of the reference work. And how little possible was it to expand beyond what was designated in the text. If, as a citizen of a changing world, the youth of tomorrow must meet the varied and complex situations with critical judgement, he will need all the knowledge he can get, and from as many sources, provided they are proven ones.

The library in this community might serve as the double purpose, both as background and a tool. The evolomp nt of the curriculum is an effort to induce the individual to educate himself. It is the plan and object of the library to be the workshop and the most important tool in making this process effective.

The following report shows types of books read by the students and people in the community. Everyone is privileged to use the library, both for reference work and recreational reading.

The Availability of Good

MANY individuals, voyaging on the troubled sea of mortal existence, may be likened to boatmen rowing against the tide. With strenuous and ceaseless effort they work as though against a power which they believe will, if not opposed, sweep them in a direction the very opposite to that in which they have set their course.

To each individual the desired haven is his highest concept of good, that state of human experience which he believes will bring him satisfaction and freedom from further struggles. Some strive to gain possession of something which they believe has been denied them, and others to recover something which they appear to have lost, such as health, harmony, opportunity, success, home, companionship, and the like. The tide against which men row is belief in evil in all its forms, including lack, limitation, poverty, and discord, and the boat in which they embark is the craft of human thought, which, when not steadied and borne along by the spiritual understanding of God, may be turned completely out of its course.

The teachings of Christ Jesus never indicate that men must struggle against evil as something real in order to gain good, since he said, "Fear not, little flock, for it is your Father's good pleasure to give you the kingdom." We may take this kingdom as denoting all that is good, satisfying, and wonderful, and the daily life of the Master was a testimony to the truth of his statement, for never at any time did he experience lack or limitation. When last he studied the Gospels, and lives can picture the mental Nazarene struggling against evil as if it were real or powerful? He knew, without a shadow of doubt, the power, presence, and availability of good, and refused to acknowledge evil in any form as having power, presence, or reality. He accepted good and used it. Health, opportunity, supply, and dominion he proved to be available to all men, for he did not limit the availability of good to his own experience. On the contrary, he said that his followers should expect his works. The great necessity of mankind is to awaken to these facts and to realize that Christ Jesus spoke no idle word. He meant what he said, and would not have said it if he had not known that what he demanded of his followers was possible of fulfillment by them.

When a individual finds himself confronted with the choice between two things, one good and the other less, he chooses the one he believes to be good.

On page 4 of his book "Pulpit and Press," showing the individual ability to utilize good, Mary Baker Eddy writes, "You have simply to preserve a scientific, positive sense of unity with your divine source, and daily demonstrate this." In Christian science we learn that the source from which man springs is perfect and infinite Mind. Therefore, in order to feel this "sense of unity" we must entertain thoughts which are pure, good, true, wise, and intelligent. Such thoughts are natural to us, for they are the substance of our true selfhood. This perfect selfhood is not in matter, but in divine Mind, for Mind expresses itself only in spiritual ideas, and man is that very expression. When we cease our vain struggling against evil as real and turn humbly to God, praying with confident expectancy for that which will meet our need, and leaving the issue in God's hands, we shall find that positive thoughts come freely to our consciousness. Holding to these with firmness and assurance and mentally declaring the supremacy of good, we shall find ourselves lifted above the tide of error, and rapidly carried in the right direction by the turning out of good.

From the foregoing facts it will be seen that we do not reach our desired haven by fighting evil and drifting with the tide. There is much work to be done, but it is primarily mental and has behind it the omnipotence of God. Our mental state determines our human conditions. With positive and fearless thoughts within, we shall find our human affairs taking on a new aspect. And if at first it seems difficult to listen for God's thoughts, let us begin by expressing the blessed qualities of cheerfulness and gratitude. These are buoyant qualities, uplifting, joyous, and free.

The cheerful and grateful heart will be receptive of the most lovely and gracious ideas of infinite Mind. Faith and goodness, hope and assurance, intelligence and wisdom, are all ours if we will but avail ourselves of them. And when the frail bark of human effort is steadied and borne onward by the spiritual understanding which comes to all who earnestly seek God, it will bring us safely to the haven of our most cherished desires.—The Christian Science Monitor.
